"I consider all my materials as textural messengers, be they charcoal, wire, or paint. Wire takes up space, is a drawing in space, and moves through space. The formations I create cast shadows, trace landscapes, and act as a means to mark the interior or exterior of things."

Charmaine Lurch

This ECPN exposure is an invitation to be in dialogue with Charmaine Lurch's artistic work.

Charmaine Lurch's provocative work draws attention to questions of invisibility/visibility as well as the intricate relations between human-environmental relationalities.
